

Data Pattern Puzzle 1: Solution

This algorithm is counting in binary. Each row is a binary number, with white meaning 0 and red meaning 1, so the first column represents 0000 and the last 1111.

When counting in binary the columns follow a distinctive pattern with groups of the same coloured square, alternating but doubling in size as you move to the next column.

D

